Living Your Life

A resource for those working with young people with special educational needs

£120.00

This resource produced by Brook (the sexual health charity for young people), in partnership with Oak Field School and Sports College, this brilliant and comprehensive PSHE resource is designed for those working with young people with special educational needs and learning difficulties.

Following extensive revision by student and staff user groups it helps teachers and youth workers design, deliver and evaluate a programme of sex and relationships education and includes seven modules covering group-building; the physical self; emotions; relationships; sexual expression; public and private; being healthy and staying safe.

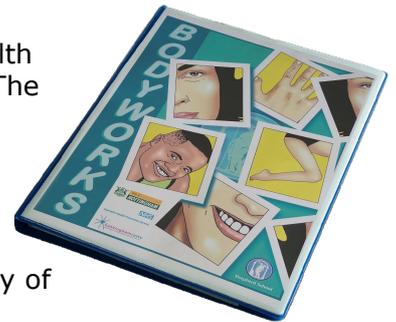

This resource is only available from Brook on 020 7284 6051 or email publications@brook.org.uk or visit www.brook.org.uk

Bodyworks

A resource for learners with PMLD

£40.00

This resource by Angela Mallet supports the teaching of Sex and Health Education for pupils with profound and multiple learning difficulties. The Bodyworks framework aims to develop awareness of 'self' through practical experiences. All parts of the body are addressed with suggested teaching activities to provide experience and/or promote awareness of issues around the themes of Health and Hygiene, Appearance, Independence, Protection, Physical Care and Social and Sexual Awareness. Useful problem pages address many of the complex issues faced by staff and families every day.

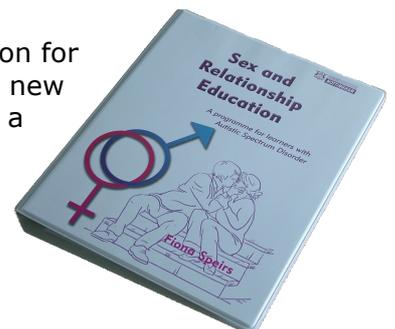

Sex and Relationship Education

A programme for learners with autistic spectrum disorder

£20.00

Delivering an effective programme of Sex and Relationship Education for Learners with Autistic Spectrum Disorder is often problematic. This new program by Fiona Speirs sets out to support staff in the delivery of a meaningful and sensitive curriculum, with many useful teaching plans and worksheets. Based on many years of experience this resource, with ten discrete yet interrelated modules will be invaluable for any staff working with learners with ASD.

Listen To Us!

A resource for citizenship and young people with special needs

£25.00

Young people with learning difficulties and other special needs have much to say on Citizenship. What are my rights, what are my responsibilities? This new resource is the culmination of a two year project involving young people from a variety of schools and colleges. Contained within are some 17 real life stories, addressing areas such as relationships, bullying, transition, personal safety, use of money, leisure, etc. These provide a rich source of discussion for other students with and without disabilities about everyday issues for students with special needs.
